In this book, author and photographer John Muir tells the story of his year-long journey into the heart of the Wind River Range. Muir hiked and backpacked over 1,000 miles, and he camped in some of the most remote and beautiful places in the range. Along the way, he encountered a variety of wildlife, including grizzly bears, black bears, wolves, moose, and elk.

Muir's book is a stunning visual journey through one of the most beautiful and remote mountain ranges in the United States. His photographs capture the beauty of the range in all its seasons, from the snow-covered peaks of winter to the wildflowers of summer. Muir's writing is also evocative and insightful, and he provides a unique perspective on the wilderness experience.
